Week 14

Well what a wonderful end to a very busy and productive term.

This week we joined in a live Pantomime to watch 'Jack and the Beanstalk'. The children and staff had a wonderful time joining in with the cheers and songs. A good time was had by all.

Today we enjoyed Christmas jumper day and our Christmas dinner. The term finished traditionally with me reading the 'Night Before Christmas' poem by Clement Clarke Moore virtually to the school, a poem traditionally read by myself to my own children over the last 18 years on Christmas Eve! (Yes they are now adults and I still subject them to this!)

Yellow Class's 1920's Party

Over the course of the half-term, Yellow Class has been learning about music during WW1 and that its purpose was to boost morale. The children were able to explore lyrics and tempo of music of this time and use this to create lyrics for their own uplifting war songs. This led on to the children exploring post-WW1 music - that of the 1920's and the children thought about how they would move to this type of music before exploring dances of the time, like the Charleston.

To end this music unit, on Wednesday 15th December, Yellow Class held a 1920's party, where they came to school in traditional 1920's costumes and danced to music of the time.
