

Purple Class Outdoor Learning

Purple Class took their learning outside this week to utilise our wonderful woodland space.

To explore our Stone Age to Bronze Age topic we spent the afternoon trying to complete challenges using a range of natural resources and clay.

The children could choose a challenge of their choice and then work in small groups to complete it without adult support.

They worked so well together using great communication skills as well as their creativity and developing resilience.

The finished pieces were fantastic and they even made bows and arrows that actually worked!
